

MORNING APPEAL

Official Paper of Ormsby County.

SATURDAY..... AUGUST 5

Empire Notes.

There are two crews of men and teams engaged in taking out wood, one at the Morgan Mill and one at Empire. There are no idle men or boys here at present. Mr. Longbaugh has a well drilled army of boys at work on the boom, separating nut pine from the yellow pine wood. A few of the idle mill men are piling or rickling wood.

Sam says that one mill man fenced himself in by making a complete circle, while trying to build a straight rick.

The Morgan is running and the Mexican will start up soon, so things look pretty favorable at present. The water is holding out unusually well and there will be no trouble in getting in with the rear of the wood drive.

We are not in the APPEAL'S Beauty Contest down here, but there are two billy-goats roaming at large in Empire which we will back against any specimen of animated life from Maine to Texas, in a gastronomic contest. Said goats can denude a room 20x16x10 feet of every scrap of wall paper, and strip a clothes line of everything, from a woolen blanket to a bandana handkerchief, and wind up with a pair of gum boots, all in thirty minutes.

NEIL MAHER.

Belvidere, Ill., Dec. 3, 1891. NORMAN LIGHTY, Des Moines, Iowa. DEAR SIR:—Having suffered a great deal from headache for years and being unable to get relief until it would wear away of itself. I saw Krause's Headache Capsules advertised. I tried them and now am never without them, finding it the only remedy that will give me relief. When I now find a headache coming on me I take a capsule and find the relief instantaneous.

The Bulletin says of the coal mines recently discovered in Esmeralda County: W. A. Ingalls of Candelaria is developing what is believed to be a large deposit of coal. It is located about twenty-five miles south of Candelaria. As yet they are less than twenty feet under ground and they have a ledge varying from six to ten feet wide, about half of which is believed to be good coal. If this should prove to be a large coal deposit its importance can hardly be conjectured. It will be better than a gold mine.

The Cure of Rupture.

For years past the residents of Carson have been bled by traveling quacks, who agree to cure everything. They merely collect their money and skip out, leaving a lot of dupes, to curse their folly. But Dr. Lossey is a different kind of a physician.

He came here several weeks ago and advertised that he would cure responsible persons of rupture and take his pay after the rupture was cured. Several parties took advantage of this offer and are now cured. Among these is the father of the writer, who has suffered intensely from rupture for several years past.

The country is full of people who are made the victims of quacks, who take money by promises of cures they are not able to make. Dr. Lossey's method is entirely new, speedy and certain. He has not failed in a single case in this city.

His discovery will be a boon to the thousands who suffer from rupture all over the country, and will some day be as famous as Keely's cure for drunkenness.

Plenty of physicians advertise to cure rupture, but few have sufficient confidence in their methods of treatment, to demand pay only when the cure is effected.

KEELEY CURE PATIENTS.

THE CLASS OF MEN WHO TAKE THE CURE.

Drunkards Who Fondly Imagine They are Keeping It to Themselves.

During the past few weeks the APPEAL has been in receipt of a great many communications, asking for information regarding the Keeley Institute of this city.

The information sought is best answered in the following statement made to an APPEAL reporter yesterday by Dr. Sussdorff.

"It is supposed by those who are unacquainted with the class of people taking the 'Keeley Cure,' that they are generally persons of low character, and disreputable habits, in addition to their drunkenness. This is a mistake.

Investigation will prove that a large majority are persons, who possess high qualities naturally, both of the mind and heart. Take a class of 50 patients, from this or any other Keeley Institute, and compare them with any 50 men you can find upon the best streets of any city, and they will compare favorably. All walks of life are represented here, but principally those who are educated and intelligent people.

It is very often the case, with those who contemplate taking the treatment, that they hesitate to begin, fearing it will be generally known that they are doing so, which will bring discredit and lower them in the estimation of their friends and the public. This feeling of sensitiveness should be overcome—since it is a false one. Intelligent, thinking people, now understand that drunkenness is a disease, and as such should be treated by specific medication, and is not regarded as a vice to be overcome by will power or moral suasion.

It is a remarkable fact that drinking men believe that but few, if any persons, know that they are drunkards. They deceive themselves in this particular, and think they deceive others also. But the truth is, that no man has ever been able, or ever will be able, to conceal this fact from his friends or even acquaintances.

It is certainly more manly and commendable to determine to shake off the shackles of drunkenness, by taking a cure for the disease, than to continue a slave to its degrading influence. A few days after beginning treatment, the change for the better in his whole condition, physical, mental and moral, is so pronounced, that his appreciation will find expression, and in his happiness he will want everyone to know of it, and all his friends to take the treatment. Instead of lowering him, it will elevate him in the esteem of those whose good will is worth having; and when his cure is completed and he returns to his home, he will find the right hand of fellowship cordially extended him, and his family and friends will have a trust in him, and confidence in his future, which will enable him speedily to regain his proper place in society, and compel the respect and esteem of his fellow men.

The question is sometimes asked: "Is it dangerous to take the treatment?" "Will it injure the functions of the brain, or general health?"

No, it is not dangerous or injurious. A child, under certain instructions, could take a barrel full of it without injurious consequences. The effect of the treatment, is to accomplish a complete renovation, and restore the functions of the body to their normal condition. It puts a man back to the same condition he was in before he ever tasted liquor; and in many instances, in a better state of health.

Before accepting a patient for the treatment, a careful physical examination is made to see if any conditions are present contra-indicating the treatment; such as fatty degeneration of the heart; advanced state of consumption; advanced Bright's disease etc. In advanced stages of such diseases, it would be unwise to withdraw the stimulant necessary to prolong life. All drinking men have some irregular action of the heart. This is due to alcoholic poisoning; and not to organic diseases. In a few days after taking treatment such symptoms disappear never to return. As before stated, the treatment effects a complete renovation.

The bloated, expressionless face; bleary, blood shot eyes; languid, unsteady walk and carriage is changed. He looks indeed as though he had been made over again.

His eyes are bright and clear; his face has the appearance of health, and his whole demeanor shows the happy change that has taken place not only of the body but of his moral nature as well.

It is believed by many that if a man drinks liquor, after taking the cure, it would kill him. The truth of the matter is this. After being cured, the system is in the condition it was before alcohol was used. A man would have to accustom his system, gradually, to the toleration of liquor, and again the disease would have to be established. Now, if a cured man, should begin drinking at once, the amount of liquor he had been using just before he took treatment, his system would not tolerate it, and it would act, in all probability, as an active poison: just as the same quantity of liquor would act upon a person who had never taken any at all.

A man cannot begin drinking the same amount, after being cured, that he used before, without danger. There never need be any fear that alcoholic stimulants, given medicinally, in sickness, etc., will be dangerous. But as stated, liquor should be avoided under all circumstances if possible, for the reason that the liquor disease may insidiously become established again."

The Delegate Fund.

There appears to be a misapprehension regarding the subscription for Mr. Bartine, to the effect that it is for the purpose of defraying his expenses at the Chicago convention, which is not the case, the subscription is asked for the purpose of sending him to Washington for a few weeks at the extra session of Congress to work in the interest of Silver Legislation on the floor of the House of Representatives where ex-Congressmen are always admitted.

Only a few hundred dollars for actual expenses is needed, which it will be necessary to raise at once so that he can be notified by wire not later than Monday next.

The Bullion Bank will receive subscriptions, for this purpose. The following subscriptions have been handed us:

Drowned at Washoe Lake.

Yesterday afternoon news reached the city by wire from Abe Cohn to his brother Sam, that Dennis Donahue, a young man from Virginia, had been drowned in Washoe Lake. He was about 24 years of age and formerly a barkeeper in Young's saloon in Virginia City.

From parties who returned from the lake last evening, it was learned that Donahue had left for a fishing trip in a small canvas boat early in the morning. He started back about 8 o'clock and when within 75 yards of the shore, the box on which he was seated either broke or tipped over and he fell into the lake.

His cries were heard by John Carroll and Phil Gillson, who jumped in a boat and rowed out, and when a couple of yards from him he sunk for the last time.

The body was recovered about 10:30 yesterday morning and taken to Virginia in the afternoon by the undertaker.

The Holsteins "Not In It."

A Reno paper in speaking of the big cheese contest at Chicago, says that the Jerseys won and adds, the Holsteins were "absolutely not in it". In this paragraph the paper unwittingly speaks the truth.

The Holsteins did not compete. It was a contest between Jerseys, Guernseys and Durhams. The National Holstein Breeders Association decided at the last National Convention, not to send any cows for competitors to the World's Fair, as they considered that the methods of conducting the contest were not based upon equity.

As the largest quantity of cheese produced by the winners in the contest does not reach the figures several times set by the Holsteins in other contests, the Holstein breeders are giving themselves small concern.
